EL SISTEMA Original Language: Spanish Genre: documentary Age Group: Adult Programme Length: 99'60"	Everyday life in the 'barrios' is marked by violence in the streets, corrupt police and gang warfare. The film 'El Sistema' shows how Abreu's astonishing ideas have led the way out of the vicious circle of poverty - and how the power of music has been able to change the lives of hundreds of thousands of young people. Hundreds of thousands of children and young adults from all social backgrounds are now making music together, educating each other, and taking responsibility for the shaping of their own futures. Several of the system's young graduates now rank amongst the most coveted young talent in Europe - the most prominent being the 26-year-old conductor Gustavo Dudamel and the double bass player Edicson Ruiz, who at the age of 17 became the youngest musician ever to join the Berlin Philharmonic. Paul Smaczny's and Maria Stodtmeier's documentary El Sistema offers a view on how this concept changes the lives of so many people. For European students, children, teachers and parents it is a great chance to learn how important it is to take responsibility for their own lives and respect a community.
